

Meet the Team ...

Tom Hutchinson

Tom Hutchinson has been with J+S Subsea for almost 10 years now. He joined us straight from school as a fresh-faced 18-year-old in 2012, with a six-week summer job as the J+S workshop was needing an extra pair of hands. He spent five years in the workshop, manufacturing, testing, and refurbishing various subsea controls equipment, as well as completing several offshore campaigns. Tom is now a business development engineer, working with clients to understand their requirements and working together with the J+S team to find ways to meet them.
